SMILE.
As you travel on life's pathway,
Never fret or be cast down;
But wear a smile upon your face
To meet the other fellow's frown.

When you see a mortal worried,
And their spirits drooping fast,
Drop a gentle word, or Smile a smile as you go past.

Every flower has its fragrance,
So has every smile its cheer;
Sweet as Springtime's fairest flower,
Is a smile that is sincere.

Four large potatoes, 1/2 cup milk, 3 tablespoons butter, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, few drops onion juice, 3 eggs.

Wash potatoes well and let stand in cold water to more than cover for two hours. Cook, without paring, in boiling water until tender. Peel and put through a ricer. Scald milk and melt butter in milk. Beat milk and butter into potatoes and season with salt, pepper and onion juice. Beat yolks of eggs until thick and lemon colored and beat into potato mixture. Beat whites of eggs until stiff and dry and fold into first mixture. Turn into a well buttered baking dish and bake twenty-five minutes in a moderate oven. Serve at once or souffle will fall.

Cool and add lemon juice and cream. Peel bananas and scrape. Cut in thin slices and add to pastry shell. Beat whites of eggs until stiff and dry. Beat in sugar and spread over pie. ## VOTE NEXT TUESDAY.

Next Tuesday, April 7, is township election day and there is also a special election on that day to elect a successor to the late Judge John B. Crabtree, county judge. Judge Wm. L. Leech of Amboy is the Republican nominee, having been nominated by the Lee County Republican Central Committee. No other party has put up a candidate and it is not believed that there will be any attempt at opposition from an independent, but this office is a very important one and the voters of the county should feel that it is their duty to go to the polls and cast their vote for Judge Leech regardless of whether he has opposition.

There are contests in several of the townships for the positions of Supervisor, Justice of the Peace, etc. Dixon township has several such contests to be decided.

Take your responsibilities as a citizen seriously, men and women of Lee County. It is a grave mistake to look upon this election as unimportant. Men will be elected next Tuesday who will govern the affairs and handle the finances of your own township and county and it means much to you whether the right men are elected.

WILLIAM A. CLARK.

William A. Clark, former United States senator from Montana, died in New York recently. He was one of the men who went to the frontier in the mountain states and carved his fortune out of the foothills. He arrived in Montana with $5 when it was a territory and died with wealth estimated at $100,000,000. He erected a Fifth Avenue mansion in New York at a cost of $7,000,000 and installed in it works of art at a cost of $2,000,000.

Little has been heard of Senator Clark since he retired from the senate and built his castle. He was not noted for statesmanship. He achieved fame in mining and industry, but only notoriety in politics. For a decade, perhaps two, he was engaged in a struggle for control of politics in Montana. His opponents were Marcus Daly and Heinze, business rivals as well as political rivals.

Clark claimed election to the United States senate in 1890, but was denied the seat. He obtained a certificate of election in 1898, but Marcus Daly contested. The senate committee recommended that his election be declared illegal, but Clark resigned before the senate voted. In 1901 he was elected and he served the full senatorial term.

Controversies among copper kings of Montana over senatorial seats contributed largely to the arguments for election of United States senators by the people. Eyes were blinded to honest and normal elections of a hundred years under the constitution and we saw only the unusual. Clark is dead, but we have and will continue to have the constitutional amendment of doubtful wisdom, and Montana now sends us Wheeler and Walsh, defendant and his counsel.

THE OLDEST CITY.

In the amazing contest of archeological discovery now in progress, covering most of the inhabited world, attention centers for the moment upon America. A buried city has been found in southern Nevada which is suspected of being older than any other ruins yet discovered—older than the pyramids and rock tombs of Egypt, older than the buried walls and potshards of Crete, Troy, Babylon or Ur, older possibly than any vestige of civilization in China or Central Asia.

Can it be that the New World, after all, is the older of the two hemispheres, that America may have been the cradle of the race?

It was not a high degree of civilization that existed in that old "pre-Pueblo" city on the Muddy river, now covered by the drifting sands of the Mohapa desert, evidently built and lived in before the land became a desert. That ancient race did not know how to work metals, and its implements were few and crude. Yet any people capable of building a series of apartment houses stretching for six miles, occupying them for ages, making a living there and getting along together as an organized community, were not barbarous or uncivilized.

The mystery of man's origin deepens, and the past takes on new interest, as one curtain after another is lifted and we can see ever a little farther into the pre-historic darkness. This probing of the past, this quest of forgotten races and cities and culture, this unraveling of the genealogy of the human race, is coming to be not only a popular science but an engrossing sport.

GOSSIP.

Your friend has a friend with whom he is as intimate as you are with him. His friend also has a friend with whom he exchanges confidences. It is well to be careful when we peddle gossip. Each man is but one of an endless chain of friends. DeMorgan tells

"Great fleas have little fleas upon their backs to bite 'em, And little fleas have lesser fleas, and so ad infinitum."

When we whisper to our intimate friend the bit of gossip about another, we start an ever widening circle just as the wave circles spread and widen around a stone thrown into a placid lake.

No repeated story ever loses any of its slanderous nature. By constant repetition, it grows like a snow ball rolled down a hill. At each repetition some details are added which were not in the original until the tenth hearer gets a vastly different story from the original.

Let us be discreet in repeating even that which is true unless it is to the credit of the man of whom it is told, says the Kiwanis Magazine.

PROHIBITION LAW IS NOT A JOKE

There are places, so they tell us, where "prohibition is a joke."

Of course! What prohibition law was ever enacted that was not a joke in the beginning. In some places? The question is, now, whether the law is somewhere a joke, but how much of a joke.

And the answer is—nowhere near as big a joke as the state laws were at the same stage. Every dry state had to go through a time when the law was openly defied, with the notorious and unrepentant defiance of the enforcement officers and of the whole local government of the still unadjusted community.

There is nowhere where the federal law is as bad a joke as that. And it is not better than it was a year ago. If we may judge the future by the past of the states which went through the same experience, the transitional stage of federal prohibition is destined to be shorter than was the case with any of the states.

"I will use all my influence to get the United States into a world court that is based on liberty and justice," says Senator Borah, "but I will vigorously oppose my country's entry into a court dominated by foreign offices of Europe."

In that case, Senator Borah should come out for the existing world court, exactly as now organized. For this is its exact basis. Its members are not more beholden to the "foreign offices of Europe" than is Chief Justice Taft to the governor of his state of Ohio, or to the ghost of President Harding, who appointed him.

One of the most distinguished is an American. Which European foreign office "dominates" him? The possibility of domination might be argued as to the panel judges of The Hague tribunal to which we are already signatory.

But not of the Permanent Court of International Justice. That is exactly why it was made "permanent."

WHERE IS THE HOWL OF PROTEST NOW?

Their sending more diptheria antitoxin to Rome, and tetanus and gas gangrene serum to the tornado districts. Why do we not hear the howl of protest?

If we sent only Catholic priests, Methodist preachers, to administer consolation to the dying, we should be charged, justly, with sectarianism. If we sent healing art, likewise divided into sects, each with its dogmas and articles of faith, the same thing follows.

We would have no right to confine our public relief to the tents of a particular cult. We should include of each victim of gangrene to which "faith" has particular pangs was to be assigned, and then, according to his sect, treat him with serum, colomel, bee-stings, a billioth of a drop of belladonna, or by osteopathic, chiropractic, spoudythumic or astro-psychic manipulation.

These conclusions follow by irrefutable logic from the original assumption—that the healing art, like religion, is divided into sects. The fallacy is in this assumption itself.

POPULAR OBSERVATION CAUSED SCIENCE TO LEARN TRUTH

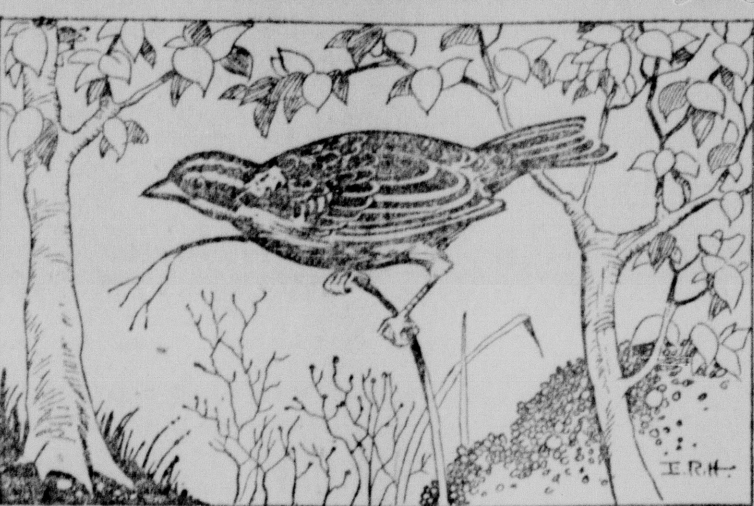

One of these diseases, by the way, against which the serum is being used, well illustrates the difference between scientific and popular observation.

That is tetanus, or "lockjaw." We all heard, in our youth, that lockjaw was caused chiefly by stepping on rusty nails. Which was quite correct so far as it went. Most of the actual cases, in each neighborhood, did follow just this injury.

Curiously, they did not follow open cuts or tears even from rusty nails, nor cuts from other rusty things. Still, we attributed it to the rust, or to the pain of the deep puncture. Now it is known that it was not the rust or pain, and not necessarily even the cut, that did it.

The tetanus germs are found in the soil. Most rusty nails have been lying on the ground. But these germs

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

"You needn't bother on our account," called out a little song sparrow from a high weed.

Jack Frost had taken his long nose and his paint brushes and gone for good. "Or on my account," said Mrs. Flicker. "A hole in an old tree is good enough for me."

There were other birds who could also have said not to bother about them, but they had not yet come from the south. The meadow lark, for instance, would likely have said, "I build my nest on the ground."

And the blue jay would have said (if he were honest) "You needn't bother about me either, for I use the nests that other birds have built."

And the oriole would have said, "And as for us, we make a sort of pocket and hang it from a branch. No bird house for us, thank you!"

But, for all there were so many birds who didn't need houses, the March Hare knew that there were hundreds who did.

Mister Tinkling, the fairy land lord, took out his rent book, "I figure," said he, "that there are going to be at least nine hundred and ninety nine more bird houses needed this year than ever before. What had we better do?"

"We'll write to all the boys at once," said the March Hare, "and advertise in the papers."

The next morning every boy for miles and miles found a letter under his door.

And all the papers in town told about bird houses needed.

And now, if you listen very carefully you will hear sounds of sawing and hammering everywhere. It is people building houses for the poor homeless little wrens and warblers and martins, so they will have some place to go when they come to visit.

If you haven't one near your house now, you'd better hustle and make one, so you had.

(Copyright, 1925, NEA Service, Inc.)

A deep small puncture, difficult to clean to the bottom and protected from the air, is an ideal incubator. The rusty nail, therefore, on, furnished these conditions better than any other ordinary accident. Popular observation noted the fact. Scientific observation ascertained the truth.

REASSIGNMENT OF GOVERNMENT BUREAUS IS NECESSARY

An announcement is made of the transfer of the patent office from the Interior to the Commerce Department. This, let us hope, only the first step in a general reassignment of bureaus to their proper departments. Our executive departments, like Topsy, have "grewed." The Interior Department, especially, has been a sort of "omnium gatherum" of whatever did not happen to go anywhere else. But the rest are bad enough. A reorganization of the whole system has been advocated by every president, at least since Taft. Now there is a chance that, under Coolidge, it will be done.

BUDGET ALONE CAN NOT BRIDGE DEPARTMENTS

And when it is done, let one more thing be added thereto. It is not enough to improve the relation of the executive departments to each other. The lack of relation of the whole executive branch to the legislative branch is even worse. It is the most unscientific and the least practical in the world.

The aloofness has been bridged, in a way, by the budget. But the budget will become either unworkable or unsafe unless a further bridge is added. Let the necessary relation of the heads of the departments with legislation be made open and responsible, instead of hidden and irresponsible, as it now is.

In other words, let them speak and be questioned openly by Congress, as is the case with the corresponding officials in practically every other free government in the world.

"The results of the annual physical examination of army officers as conducted in 1923 and in 1924 are such that there can be no doubt of its influence for good upon the physical efficiency of the officer personnel of the Army," says a military report. "If it is good for army officers it is good for civilians" adds the state health director.

Fellowship of Prayer

Daily Lenten Bible reading and meditation prepared for Commission on Evangelism of Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America.

THURSDAY
The Stubbhorn Heart

Read Lk. 16:14-31. Text: 16:31. If they hear not Moses and the prophets, neither will they be persuaded, if one rise from the dead.

MEDITATION—We are all the while trying to escape the necessity of making vital decisions affecting our own lives. We want the right to be so plain that we may see it without search and follow without effort. Life is not thus. We must lay firm hold on our own natures, bring our wills into action, set our minds at work, then the powers of God are available for our instruction and our help.

"It is the old story. We are waiting God to appear in imperial glory, and he comes among us as a humble carpenter. We want great miracles and we have the daily Providence. It is a great day when we discover our God in the common bush. When we enjoy a closer walk with God, common things will wear the hues of heaven."

PRAYER—O God turn our eyes, we pray thee, towards thy light and our minds towards thy truth. Remove all stubbornness from our hearts. May thy teachings shine in our lives like stars in the night. Let our strength be renewed in thee. Amen.

GETTING UP NIGHTS

In One of Nature's Danger Signals, A Healthy Bladder Does Not Act at Night.

Irritation, excessive acidity or abnormal deposits may be the cause. It needs cleansing. Lithiated Buchu (Keller Formula) acts on the kidneys and bladder as Epsom Salts on the bowels. R. D. Nehrl, 10 Oak St., Battle Creek, Mich., says: "For three years had to get up three times at night. Lithiated Buchu (Keller Formula) helped me in two days. I now do heavy work. It isn't a patent medicine. The formula is on the label. Sold by leading drug stores or Keller Laboratory, Mechanicalburg, Ohio."

GIVEN 35-YEAR BOOTLEG TERM

EDNA BOND

By NEA Service.
Canton, O.—Edna Bond, little moun- tain girl of West Virginia, is serving the longest sentence on record for bootlegging.

Seven years and a fine of $6000 was the sentence imposed on Edna by a judge who told her that he would make her an example for the other bootleggers of the mountains.

Working out the fine at a rate of 60 cents a day, Edna will remain in prison 35 years.

But club women are being interest- ed in Edna's case and they probably will ask President Coolidge to pardon her.

Should the president decline, an ap- peal will be made to a national board of parole which can act after the girl has served 14 more months of her sen- tence.

of Compton begin at 8:20 A. M. and close at 9:05 p. m. The change was made at the request of those who work after school and also for the benefit of truck practice. This is being tried as an experiment and if it works as well as expected, will be used the remainder of the year. Here-to-for, being a member of the Honor Class has merely brought honor alone, but for the remainder of the year, any one having no recitation during the last period of the day, may choose whether to remain in school or go during that period. If given, practice will soon be in full swing. Of the boys winning track letters last year, there remain Fremont Kauffman, captain, miler; Le- land Cook, quarter miler; Oswald Kutter, javelin thrower; Smith Hold- ren, high jumper and vaulter; Don Archer, hurdler. Of the junior letter winners of last year, Wm. J. Archer should make good in the shot put, and Wyman Montavon should be able to throw the discus. Dale Floreschuetz and Wayne Bettner are known to have ability, and there are others opt- ing for the team who are as yet unknown in ability. The Green River Valley Conference meet it the first scheduled so far. This track team will live up to the name earned by other teams from Compton.

SUBLETTE WOMAN'S CLUB ENTERTAINED WITH A COMEDIETTA

Enjoyable Affair Marked
Meeting of Club Last Saturday Afternoon

Sublette—On March 26th the Sub- lette Women's Club met in the church parlors with Mrs. Kath Baker as hos- tess. The meeting was opened in regular form and after the usual re- ports and business, the meeting was turned over to Mrs. Elizabeth Easter being program leader for the day. She put on a comedietta, entitled "Too Much of a Good Thing." The charac- ters were:

Mr. Perkins ..... Mrs. Elizabeth Easter
Tom Perkins ..... Mrs. Lillian Graham
Fred Schuyler ..... Mrs. Mary Leffelman
Mrs. Perkins ..... Mrs. Anna Barton
Hattie Perkins ..... Mrs. Marietta Reaser
Nellie Perkins ..... Mrs. Lydia Utch
Bunice Bowles ..... Mrs. Ika Koehler
Tennie Cowper

Mrs. Catherine Tourillote
Polly ..... Miss Ruth Elote
Mrs. Perkins is a very precise stop- mother who does everything by the strictest rules of the "best society."

The Perkins are expecting a visit from Tom Perkins a country cousin, also from Fred Schuyler the intended husband of Tennie Cowper. Another cousin of the family is Tom, a thor- ough backwoodsman in speech and ac- tions but shrewd (Mrs. Graham) as Tom kept the company amused from start to finish. Mr. Perkins sees him first and tells him he must secure all of his female relations with alike. Tom tries to put his plan into execu- tion, but fails. Tom is mistaken for Schuyler and Tom mistakes Schuyler for a sneak thief. Ludicrous results follow from both mistakes. Eunice plays the part of a bold female and horrifies Schuyler. Tom horrifies Mrs. Perkins and amuses everybody else with his country humor. The ladies are to be congratulated on their acting. They received a great deal of praise from all. Miss Lena Elote entertained with several readings. The hostess served dainty refreshments at the close of the program.

The Irvin Rapp family are able to be about again. Mrs. Rapp was quite ill a few days last week with the flu, which seems to have gone with the rounds of the family.

Mrs. Hicks has not been feeling very well for some time but was feel- ing better Sunday. She is making her home with Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Williams at present.

Rev. F. P. Harris called at both the Rapp and Williams homes last Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lett entertain- ed Rev. E. P. Harris Sunday for din- ner.

The pastor of the Union church took dinner Monday with Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Utch. Many thanks to all these kind friends.

Mrs. F. P. Harris and baby are spending a couple of weeks with Mrs. Harris' folks. Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Hawkins of Grand Rapids, Mich.

Mrs. F. C. Reis, Mrs. Flossie Owens and Geraldine Reis accompanied by Rev. Harris at the wheel, motored to Mendota Tuesday and spent the af- ternoon shopping and visiting. All were delighted to be shown through the one high school building in Men- dota by Mr. Hardy.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Hatch and children were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Hatch.

Richard Miller who had commenced to work for Paul Harris was called home to Marshfield, Wis., Wednesday by the serious illness of his mother, Mrs. John P. Miller. Mrs. E. H. Miller of Dixon, sister of Mrs. John Miller accompanied Richard.

OGLE CO. FARM LEADERS RAISE RELIEF MONEYS

Several Townships in County Have Raised
Over $200 Now

Oregon—Ogle County Farmers are taking their full part in the campaign for relief funds for southern Illinois states Farm Advisor, Warren, who reports that a drive has been started in every township of the county in charge of township leaders. Some townships have reached about two hundred dollars, Lynnville being the first to attain that figure. Officers of the Farm Bureau are desirous of obtaining the $2000 quota allotted to each county to raise. The money col- lected through this farmers organi- zation will be administered for the relief of farmers to grub stake them until they can produce a crop and the work of handling these funds is done then continued: "Instead of Kar- nak being of value in the treat- ment of only one disease, the medi- cine exercises a wonderful restor- ative effect upon the whole body. By acting through the natural pro- cesses of digestion, nutrition and purification which, after all, is na- ture's own way. Karnak exerts a most powerful reconstructive in- fluence over the entire system."

"Science has long known that from eighty to ninety per cent of all human complaints originate in the stomach. Our own tests have shown that it is next to impossible for the ordinary forms of stomach trouble to exist when Karnak is taken. Even the most stubborn cases readily respond to it. Through its wonderful reconstruct- ive effect upon the whole body, Karnak enables the system to overcome and throw off a multi- tude of other complaints and dis- eases that thrive upon a weak- ened power of resistance."

Results Guaranteed.
"Now here is something I wish to tell the people of your city," con- tinued Mr. Carroll. "I want to say as emphatically as possible that Karnak carries with it an iron- clad money-back guarantee, that if a person is not substantially ben- efit- ted by the first two bottles, we agree to refund the purchase price without question and the druggist in your city who is fortunate enough to secure the Karnak agency must commit himself in ad- vance to this policy."

"This, I believe, expresses our unlimited confidence in this great system building medicine, and no druggist would undertake the dis- tribution of the preparation under this policy unless he, too, had un- limited confidence in it. A guar- antee could not be stronger."

Mr. Carroll said he may be able to announce definite decision within a day or two. Meantime, interest among local druggists is intense.

Yankees Beat Their Jinx and Trim Robby's Dodgers

By Associated Press Leased Wire
New York, April 2.—A baseball triumph over a baseball team is merely an incident in the season's diamond play, but a baseball victory over a baseball jinx is a feat for celebration.

It was in this light that Manager Huggins chose to consider yesterday fourth and decisive defeat administered by the Yankees to the Brooklyn Dodgers at Nashville 10 to 7.

Huggins was enthused chiefly because the fusillade of base hits was accomplished largely off left-hand pitching—the accepted nemesis for the Yankees' most powerful hitters. A charity horse compelled Ruth to retire early but not until he had collected a double and a triple.

The New York Giants, idle yesterday, today will open a four day series with the Memphis Southern Association team at Memphis, Tenn.

Over Thousand Sportsmen Attend League Convention

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Apr. 2.—Upwards of a thousand sportsmen from every state in the union gathered here today for the annual convention of the Izaak Walton League of America which will continue to Saturday evening.

Legislation for the protection of game and outdoor life was the principal topic before the convention which also planned memorial services for the late Senator Medill McCormick of Illinois, Gene Stratton Porter and Emmerson Hough, authors and members of the league.

Dr. Henry Baldwin Ward, professor of biology, University of Illinois, Will H. Diggs, president of the league and Col. W. B. Greeley, chief of the U. S. Forestry Service, were among speakers today.

Cross Roads Post Village Quintet Looms Up Greatly

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, April 2.—Competition had narrowed considerably when sixteen survivors of the forty two entrants in the National Interscholastic Basketball tournament of the University of Chicago went into the third round today.

The far west had been eliminated and the east was represented by only two teams, Medford, Mass., and Torrington, Conn. while the north and south appeared likely to continue some representatives to the finals. The Midwest was strongly in evidence.

One of the south's strongest contenders was Wheeler, Miss., a cross roads post village. Large cities had gradually been downed until only Chicago, St. Paul, Louisville, Ky., and Wichita, Kas., were in the running.

Old Alex's Single Won for Cubs in the Tenth

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, April 2.—There was a 5 to 5 tie in the tenth inning of the Cuba-Oakland game yesterday and the Cubs had the bases full when the veteran Grover Alexander came in to singled, scoring Weiss and Mc Auley and gave the Cubs the game 7-5.

The series with Oakland, to be ended with a double header Sunday, will be the Cubs' California season. They will then invade Kansas City for four games and then to Chicago for the season's opener with Pittsburgh.

Red Faber and Hollis Thurston did a thorough job on the mound for the White Sox at New Orleans yesterday. When they had finished the Pelicans were beaten 19-4.

Harvard's Director of Physical Education Dead

Boston, April 1.—William H. Geer, 40, director of physical education at Harvard since 1919, died today. He had been unconscious since last Friday when he was over come by carbon monoxide gas in his garage.

Elgin High Eliminated from National Hourney

Elgin high school was eliminated from the national interscholastic basketball tournament at the University of Chicago last evening, being defeated by Louisville, Ky., 26 to 14.

School Volley Ball Team Defeats World

(By Murphy)
Volley ball fans who witnessed the match between the "World" and the "School" Tuesday evening at the Y saw as tight a match, both physically and vocally as has ever been played in Dixon. The "School" team won three out of five games but had to go the five to do it and then the total score was 65-64, the individual game scores being: "World", 11-12-15-15-11; "School", 15-15-10-10-15. Until the last point was made it was anybody's contest, and everybody was going the limit to make that point. The "School" started out slightly more confident than the "World" having played together before, and consequently having a little better team work, but after these two games which went to the "School", the "World" settled down to business and took the second two. Then the fifth and final contest was on, with the termination to win by hook or crook strong upon them. Previous to this final game it was evident that in addition to a physical contest there was one, vocal in nature in process also and it was the team with the toughest lungs, the team making the most noise who eventually won, both physically and vocally. You've got to hand it to the teachers and others affiliated with the schools, they have a volley ball team, but in that contest, which was almost a riot, they were pushed to the limit, though finally winning 15-11. The personnel of the teams was:

School—Weiss, capt., Potter, Miller, Leland, Lancaster, Frazer, World—Schildberg, capt., Hirsch, Raymond, Segner, Whitcombe, Moore, Kuhn.

Referee—Fisher. Scorer—Gigous.

TO PLAY IN STERLING

Monday evening the Y volley ball team goes to Sterling for a match with the Sterling Y. During a recent tournament at Dixon the Sterling outfit defeated the Dixon team and the Dixon aggregation are out looking for revenge.

Notre Dame Star Will Direct Davenport Play

Davenport, Ia., April 1.—Elmer E. Layden, one of the "Four Horsemen of Notre Dame," will serve in the capacity of supervisor of the Davenport City Playgrounds during the coming summer. The Davenport city council today appointed Layden to this position and he will take up his duties as soon as the vacation starts at Notre Dame. The famous football star applied for the position while he was visiting his parents here on his way back from Pasadena, following the Notre Dame-Leland Stanford game on New Year's Day. Layden received his early football training on the Davenport high school team.

Gibbons and Tunney Will Fight in New York, June 12

New York, April 1.—Tommy Gibbons, St. Paul, heavyweight and Gene Tunney, American light heavyweight champion, will meet in a 15 round match at the Polo Grounds on the night of June 12. Articles of agreement were signed today by the managers of the two principals and Jimmy De Forest, matchmaker of the Polo Grounds A. C.

Gibbons will receive 30 per cent of the gate receipts as his share of the purse while Tunney will receive 20 per cent. Both fighters agreed to post forfeits of $10,000.

Champion Golfers Meet in Elimination Tourney

Pinehurst, N. C., April 1.—Cyril Walker, American open champion and Walter Hagen, present title holder, headed a list of more than seventy players here today for the opening of the 23rd annual North and South open golf championship. Thirty-six holes were on the card today and a like number tomorrow.

Other prominent entrants were "Paddy" Doyle, Emmet French, Joe Kirkwood, Macdonald Smith, Jack Hutchison, Larry Nabholz, Tom Boyd, Jim Barnes and Leo Diegel.

Legislators to Inspect Chicago Sanitary Dst.

Springfield, Ill., April 1.—(By The Associated Press)—Members of the House and Senate today accepted an invitation from Lawrence E. King, president of the Chicago Sanitary District, to inspect the Chicago sewage treatment plants and plans for additions to the sewage treatment system on April 13.

King said it is the desire of sanitary district officials to show all members of the general assembly the work which has been done and acquaint them with future plans so that they will know what can be expected in the future.

Don't Use Bunion Pads to Protect Vaccination

Washington, April 1.—A warning against the use of bunion pads as a dressing in vaccination against small-pox was issued today by Surgeon General Cummings. He said this use of such pads "appears to be more common than would be supposed" and that as a result several fatal cases of tetanus recently have occurred.

Two steering wheels connected with a sprocket chain are now being used to teach people to drive cars.

BENCH BEFORE THE DESK

Instead of a chair with its back to the room, a bench looks in better grace in front of a desk. It appears more comfortable and decorative than the general run of desk chairs.

"61" FLOOR VARNISH

ROUGH treatment for the naughty boy, but "61" Floor Varnish stands the running, scuffing, stamping and scampering of kiddies—and even Father's big foot holds no terrors for "61" because "61" is just as wear-resistant as it is water-resistant. And it will stand any water test you care to give it. Durable as "61" is on floors and linoleum, it lasts even longer on furniture and woodwork. The beautiful woodstain colors stain and varnish in one stroke of the brush without showing laps, streaks or brush marks. A color card is waiting for you at our store.

BARRE, SON OF KAZAN

by James Oliver Curwood
A LOVE EPIC OF THE FAR NORTH

Copyright, 1917, by Doubleday, Page & Co.
"BARRE, SON OF KAZAN," a Vitaphone Picture, With Wolf, the War Dog, is an Adaptation of This Story

SYNOPSIS

For months, Barre, the wolf-dog, carried on a ceaseless search for Nepeese, the Indian girl who had been his best friend. Over all the old trails and by the familiar pool he searched, for he well knew that something had gone out of his life. He did not know that Nepeese, in escaping the unrelenting attacks of McTaggart, the brutal factor, had cast herself to the bottom of a deep abyss.

CHAPTER XXIV—Continued

At the thresholds of the cabins he sniffed; outside of the tepees he circled close, gathering the wind; the canoes he watched with eyes in which there was a hopeful gleam. Once he thought the wind brought him the scent of Nepeese, and all at once his legs grew weak under his body and his heart seemed to stop beating. It was only for a moment or two. She came out of the tepee—an Indian girl with her hands full of willow-work—and Barre slunk away unseen.

It was almost December when Lerue, a halfbreed from Lac Baine, saw Barre's footprints in freshly fallen snow, and a little later caught a flash of him in the bush. "Mon Dieu, I tell you his feet are as big as my hand, and he is as black as a raven's wing, with the sun on it!" he exclaimed in the Company's store at Lac Baine. "A fox? No! He is half as big as a bear. A wolf—out! And black as the devil, M'sieu."

McTaggart was one of those who heard. He was putting his signature in ink to a letter he had written to the Company when Lerue's words came to him. His hand stopped so suddenly that a drop of ink spattered on the letter. Through him there ran a curious shiver as he looked over at the halfbreed. Just then Marie came in. McTaggart had brought her back from her tribe. Her big, dark eyes had a sick look in them, and some of her wild beauty had gone since a year ago.

"His hand stopped so suddenly that a drop of ink spattered on the letter."

"He was like that!" Lerue was saying, with a snap of his fingers. He saw Marie, and stopped. "Black, you say?" McTaggart said carelessly, without lifting his eyes from his writing. "Did he not bear some dog mark?"

Lerue shrugged his shoulders. "He was gone like the wind, M'sieu. But he was a wolf." With scarcely a sound that the others could hear Marie had whispered into the Factor's ear, and folding his letter McTaggart rose quickly and left the store. He was gone an hour. Lerue and the others were puzzled. It was not often that Marie came into the store; it was not often that they saw her at all. She remained hidden in the Factor's log house, and each time that he saw her Lerue thought that her face was a little thinner than the last, and her eyes bigger and hungrier looking. In his own heart there was a great yearning. Many a night he passed the little window beyond which he knew that she was sleeping; often he looked to catch a glimpse of her pale face, and he lived in the one happiness of knowing that Marie understood, and that into her eyes there came for an instant a different light when their glances met. No one else knew. The secret lay between them—and patiently Lerue waited and watched. "Someday," he kept saying to himself—"Someday"—and that was all. The one word carried a world of meaning and of hope. When that day came he would take Marie straight to the Missioner over at Fort Churchill, and they would be married. It was a dream that made the long days and the longer nights on the trapline patiently endured. Now they were both slaves to the envying Power. But—someday—

CHAPTER XXV

The trapline of Pierre Eustach ran thirty miles straight west of Lac Baine. It was not as long a line as Pierre's had been, but it was like a main artery running through the heart of a rich fur country. It had belonged to Pierre Eustach's father, and his grandfather, and his great-grandfather, and beyond that it reached, Pierre averred, back to the very pulse of the finest blood in France. The books at McTaggart's post went back only as far as the great-grandfather end of it, the older evidence of ownership being at Churchill. It was the finest game country between Reindeer Lake and the Harren Lands. It was in December that Barre came to it.

Again he was travelling southward in a slow and wandering fashion, seeking food in the deep snows. The Kistsew Kestlin, or Great Storm, had come earlier than usual this winter, and for a week after it scarcely a hoof or claw was moving. Barre, unlike the other creatures, did not bury himself in the snow and wait for the skies to clear and crust to form. He was big, and powerful, and restless. Less than two years old, he weighed a good eighty pounds. His pads were broad and wolfish. His chest and shoulders were like a Mallemite's, heavy and yet muscled for speed. He was wider between the eyes than the wolf-breed husky, and his eyes were larger, and entirely clear of the Wuttoo, or blood film, that marks the husky. His jaws were like Kazan's, perhaps even more powerful. Through all that week of the Big Storm he travelled with out food. There were four days of snow, with driving blizzards and fierce winds, and after that three days of intense cold in which every living creature kept to its warm dugout in the snow. Even the birds had burrowed themselves in. One might have walked on the backs of caribou and moose and not have guessed it. Barre sheltered himself during the worst of the storm but did not allow the snow to gather over him.

Every trapper from Hudson's Bay to the country of the Athabasca knew that after the Big Storm the famished fur animals would be seeking food, and that traps and deadfalls properly set and baited stood the biggest chance of the year of being filled. Some of them set out over their traplines on the sixth day; some on the seventh, and others on the eighth. It was on the seventh day that Bush McTaggart started over Pierre Eustach's line, which was now his own for the season. It took him two days to uncover the traps, dig the snow from them, rebuild the fallen "trap-houses," and rearrange the baits. On the third day he was back at Lac Baine.

It was on this day that Barre came to the cabin at the far end of McTaggart's line. McTaggart's trail was fresh in the snow about the cabin, and the instant Barre sniffed of it every drop of blood in his body seemed to leap suddenly with a strange excitement. It took perhaps half a minute for the scent that filled his nostrils to associate itself with what had gone before, and at the end of that half minute there rumbled in Barre's chest a deep and sullen growl. For many minutes after that he stood like a black rock in the snow, watching the cabin. Then slowly he began circling about it, drawing nearer and nearer, until at last he was sniffing at the threshold. No sound or smell of life came from inside, but he could smell the old smell of McTaggart. Then he faced the wilderness—the direction in which the trapline ran back to Lac Baine. He was trembling. His muscles were assembling more and more vividly in his mind—the fight in the cabin, Nepeese, the wild chase through the snow to the chasm's edge—even the memory of that age-old struggle when McTaggart had caught him in the rabbit snare. In his white there was a great yearning, almost expectation.

Slowly he followed the trail and a quarter of a mile from the cabin struck the first trap on the line. Hunger had caved in his sides until he was like a starved wolf. In the first trap-house McTaggart had placed as bait the hind-quarter of a snowshoe rabbit. Barre reached incautiously. He had learned many things on Pierre's line: he had learned what the snap of a trap meant; he had felt the cruel pain of steel jaws; he knew better than the shrewdest fox what a deadfall would do when the trigger was sprung—and Nepeese herself had taught him that he was never to touch a poison-bait. So he closed his teeth gently in the rabbit flesh and drew it forth as cleverly as McTaggart himself could have done. He visited five traps before dark, and ate the five baits without springing a pan. The sixth was a deadfall. He circled about this until he had beaten a path in the snow. Then he went on into a warm balsam swamp and found himself a bed for the night.

Correct Clothes To Meet The Obligation Of Every Occasion

Big, Little Details

Conrage does not perform a deserving deed, because there's a medal waiting. Neither does The Well-Dressed Man expect any approbation or admiration for being correctly turned out, except that invisibile pat upon the back which is administered by the consciousness that he is true to the traditions of a gentleman "the name defamed by every charlatan and soil'd with all ignoble use."

Because semi-formal (Tuxedo)

dress is commonly and erroneously termed informal evening dress, the temptation is great to be remiss in its details. Thus, one chances upon the turn-down collar, instead of the wing; dull black shoes, instead of patent leather; colored felt hats, instead of black felt or the derby; too ornately jeweled sleeve-links and shirt and waistcoat buttons, instead of plainer designs. It is just as easy to be right as wrong, and it is far more comfortable to reflect that you are correct.

A valued correspondent wishes to know what authority sponsors the white waistcoat with the Tuxedo jacket, instead of the black, and how the change came about. In the first place, there is no change away from black, for this color is just as smart as white. As concerns authority, that is not difficult to trace, for authority is the practice of the best-dressed men in the capitals of America and Europe acting concurrently by a sort of unspoken agreement.

The white waistcoat was adopted, in addition to the black, simply because it looks crisp and colorful and tallies with the duotone theme of evening dress just as well as black does. You may wear either color and be correct, though widest custom still prefers black to white. Indeed, it seems to the observer that the vogue of the white waistcoat is already on the wane, though some of the best-turned-out Londoners yet cling to it. Wear whichever color is most becoming. That's the best rule.

Illustrated here are the fashionable details of semi-formal (Tuxedo) dress for this season, including the bold tab wing collar; the black bow-knot tie and the pleated-front shirt with starched single cuffs. In reply to another correspondent, it should be said that Tuxedo clothes must never be worn before six o'clock in the evening. They are strictly for after sundown and to assume them by day is an unpardonable breach of the etiquette of dress.
